

Rob Schilling
Course Director

Rob Schilling is the Course Director for Artgym's Shanghai Advanced Diploma in Leading Creative Collaboration. He believes strongly in the transformative power of creativity, for individuals, groups and organizations.

On the Advanced Diploma, Rob serves as Producer, Director and Conductor, all in one. He sets the context from the start of the journey through to graduation and beyond, taking a group of individuals with their own goals for the course and needs, and bringing them together while balancing group dynamics, psychological safety, and role-modelling creative collaboration facilitation. Rob loves the individual transformations people experience on the Diploma, the way participants are able to turn their inspirations into meaningful contributions to the world, and moment when the group becomes a community.

For more than 20 years, Rob has been bringing about innovation and transformation for clients in over 25 countries. His diverse work includes working with an adidas Golf team to understand where they wanted to go as a team and how to get there, challenged the mindset of the senior leadership team at Tesco Thailand, and spurred the creativity of a global beverage company, helping their team to excel and win huge awards for social responsibility and their marketing. In Rob's work, it's never about what he does, but rather what the client wants to do.

Rob's certifications include:

- BA in Psychology, University of New Hampshire
- Certificate in Integral Coaching, New Ventures West
- Somatic Business Coach
- Association of Facilitators, Level 3

Outside of work, Rob is passionate about animals. He has a house full of furry friends and enjoys volunteering for animal shelters.
