

Candy Jannetta

Program Lead: Learning Design

Warm, dynamic, insightful.

*Loves walking, good conversation, cooking with her son and watching
Anime with her daughter.*

In a nutshell

Working on a global level, Candy designs and leads cultural change and leadership development programs for a wide range of high-profile multinational organisations. Her expertise and passion lie in next generation learning, and in harnessing the power of virtual environments to make learning more impactful.

Key responsibilities

With a marketing background working for Warner Music International and CNN, Candy has a wealth of experience in enabling large corporates to nurture talent, to develop outstanding leaders and to embed new cultures. She approaches all her coaching and facilitation with a focus on introducing behavioural change in line with a business's strategy. At the same time, she creates a feeling of total trust and safety within the groups she leads. Spearheading the delivery of our flagship programs for clients in North America, Asia, Europe, the Middle East and Africa, Candy is particularly interested in applying virtual learning to enable global collaboration and to speed innovation.

Areas of expertise

- Leadership training
- Executive coaching
- Coaching for executive women
- Team coaching
- High Performance coaching
- One-on-one coaching
- Hybrid & virtual learning
- Virtual facilitation
- Micro learning

Programs delivered

- Leadership development
- Talent development
- Cultural change
- Behavioural change
- Performance management
- Communications skills
- Presentation skills for creatives
- Inclusive Leadership
- Emotional intelligence development

How Candy makes a difference

Candy brings her warmth, her inspiration and her depth of expertise to her workshops, helping her learners to grow, transform and positively impact both their teams and the business they are contributing to. Candy values diversity highly and at the heart of her style is inclusion which she uses to create the best possible learning experiences. She is exceptionally skilled at virtual facilitation, building an immediate connection with all the individuals in her group, and making them feel included and special. As a result, she delivers highly engaging, creative and interactive online sessions that leave delegates both energised and enthused. Candy's success lies in enabling client teams to identify their own performance blockers and in skilfully coaching these teams so they drive business results.

Most proud of...

Designing engaging and transformative leadership programs and seeing that design come alive when programs are launched.

Some companies she has worked with:

Adidas, AXA, Capgemini, Kering, Lebara, STADA, Time Out, Visual DNA

Qualifications/certifications

- Certified Team Coach
- Certified Life Coach
- Certified Youth Coach
- Certified in the Emotional Intelligence psychometric, Emotional Capital Report
- Chartered Institute of Marketing post-graduate diploma in marketing
- Teaching English as a Foreign Language
- Honours Degree in French and English

Awards

- Part of the team that won Gold in the Brandon Hall HCM Excellence Awards for 'Best Innovative or Unique Leadership Program 2021'

“I'm always looking to innovate and adapt to our ever-changing world and business environment. I love to learn new skills and up my game so that I can constantly deliver thought-provoking and inspiring workshops that are both professionally and personally transformative for my learners.”